Umberto Tolino

Vice Rector for Communication and Cultural Events at the Politecnico di Milano

A designer and researcher in the fields of communication and digital design, Umberto Tolino has authored projects featured in six editions of the ADI Design Index and has received an ADI Compasso d'Oro honourable mention, as well as a Red Dot Design Award.

With more than twenty years of teaching experience in the School of Design, his research explores how digital technologies intersect with communication systems, driving both social and technological innovation. The applications range from digital innovation to visual identity and social media strategies for the public sector.

Currently serving as Vice Rector for Communication and Cultural Events at the Politecnico di Milano, he has also served as member of the Board of Directors of Fondazione Politecnico di Milano.
